mours. And ys the rawe humours be aboue on the water it betokeneth a straþe heed in the hest & short of bretþe & nyppynge of the splesie. And ys it appere in the myddes it betokeneth gryndyngc in the body and clensyn g in the guttes & wynde in the stomake.
All this cometh of excesse of meat and dynke. And ys they be in the botome the peyne is in the reynes /

Somtyme it is in þ codde. ¶ Fat heed without Arcys betokeneth wastynge of grece aboue the fundumēt.
¶ If i: be with an Arcys it betokeneth wastynge of þ body. In the fyſt spysē of the Etyke the fat heed houeth aboue the partyes as it were of fat bothe. ¶ The secōde spysē t̄ at hylle th̄ all the b̄yne aboue is lyke the webbe of Erren. The thyde spycē the b̄yne is thycke ouer all fatte as oyle / & yf it be cast on a marble stone it leweth as oyle / and this spysē is vncus-table. ¶ Ucrinyn cōtētes they be lyke to b̄yne / som-tyne rounde as scales of a fyſſhe. If they appere wtthin an Arcys they betoken the fyſt spysē of the Etyke they do appere lyke vnto b̄yne that hath the ly-tell of the flowre hit h̄ym. In the thyde spycē of þ Etyke therē do appere contentes lyke these. ii. fyſt / nesse. And it be blacke it betokeneth destruccyon of kynde and dethe.

Now haue I shewed you the substaunce of vyns / y colours / the regyons / & the contentes byldgynge to vyns. And now wyll I shewe the the complec-cyons. If the vynne be thycke and reed / than it betokeneth blode. And yf it be reed and thyinne than it betokeneth colour. And it be thycke & whyte it betokeneth sclwnie. And it be whyte and thynne than it betokeneth malancoly. And yf thou knowe the compleccyons by the cost of the vynne / loke yf it be swete / thā it betokeneth blode. If it be swete it betokeneth coloure. And it be whyte without sauour as water / it betokeneth flewne. And it be salt it betokeneth malancoly.

Chow the compleccyons be gendred.

 If thou wyl knowe where these com-pleccyōs be gendred in a manes body / I say that coloure is gendred in the lyuer / and his dwellynge is in þ cofer of the gall. Blode is gedred in the lyuer / and his dwellynge is in þ beynes. Flewne that is naturall is engendred in þ lyuer / and it hathe no proper dwellynge / & therfore he is incled with the blode to make the blode ren-nyng. Malancoly is gendred in the lyuer / and his proper dwellynge place is in the splenue. Malancoly and flewne kepe the botom of the vynall.

Chow thou shall dyscerne mannes vynne fro womans vynne / and beestes vynne fro the vynne of man and weman.

Hus I wyll that thou vnderstande that yf there be ony drobled in mannes vynne it sheweth in the myddes of the vynne / and in the womannes vynne it doth not so. Another is this the frothe after the castynge of mā:

nes byyne it shalbe longe / and of a won:ans after y castynge it shalbe rounde. These ii. last tokens Iuy cence saythe. Now beestes water fro mannes water. Beestes water is the sadder and moxe supple of compleccyon. Also the beestes water swelleth moxe than the mannes. Another medle the byyne of a beest with a mannes byyne / and they shall parte a sondre.
And it be a Cowe þ is with calfe / it is good to know fro a woman that is with chylde / for the drestes oþ contents of the Cowes byyne is moche greater thā the byyne of a woman / in as moche as the woman is lesse and fayrer of compleccyon than the Cowe is.
If thou wyl knowe the fyȝt water & the seconde / the godheed sheweth whyther he be in great etynge
